

An aerial photograph of a coastal town and marina. In the foreground, there are several large, modern residential buildings with grey roofs and light-colored walls, surrounded by green lawns and trees. A tennis court and a swimming pool are visible among the buildings. In the middle ground, a large marina is filled with numerous sailboats. The background shows a coastal town with various buildings, including a tall white apartment building, and a body of water extending to the horizon under a clear blue sky.
